Viga

by Yonoh Studio

The modern executive office doesn't call for the old-fashioned, intimidating furniture anymore. On the contrary, the executive office nowadays is a friendly space open to conversation among equals.

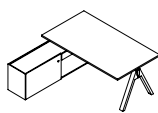

With Viga executive desk, Yonoh wanted to build bridges instead of walls: a friendly desk that makes both, the user and the guest, comfortable. A highly functional desk featuring as few elements as possible, avoiding cluttered and overwhelming working environments.

Viga executive desk comes in several sizes, with an optional side executive cabinet that will help to keep documents and stationary items in order. Always based on its iconic extruded aluminium beam, it presents itself light and robust at the same time.

Gravity

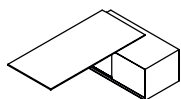

by Dymitr Malcew

Firm and comfortable, despite the gravity – Gravity takes the idea of the executive desk to a whole new level. Minimalistic form, inspired by modern architecture, has been integrated with technology. Large top situated on a single fulcrum and the invisible supporting structure brings into mind a floating surface, whereas electrically adjustable worktop allows ergonomic work and a smooth transition from sitting to standing position. The Gravity range also consists of: height adjustable conference system table, coffee table, bookstand and modular storage system. This unique desk is a bold proposal addressed to modern leaders.

Mito

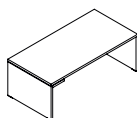

by Simone Bernocchi

The classic and elegant Mito executive desk will highlight the style of any room. The collection is intended for demanding people who value quality and comfort. Equipped with an electric height adjustable worktop, the desk gives the opportunity to work in both the sitting and standing position. The control panel allows for easy and quick adaptation of the desk to the preferences of the user. The desk is available in two colours: amber oak and robinia that can be matched with white and black matte varnished details which emphasise the prestige of the collection.
